The Environmental Group is a seasoned team of experts built on specialized market knowledge, exceptional underwriter relationships, and an unwavering commitment to client satisfaction. As one of the industry's most robust and experienced environmental teams, we have extensive experience shielding clients against the two primary types of environmental risk:

- Operational Risk—The possibility of an unexpected or unintended pollution event that can create an adverse financial consequence to the parties found liable and encompasses virtually all industry classes.

- Transactional Risk—Environmental liability, real or perceived, that may create exposure for buyers, sellers, acquirers, divesting parties, bankrupt entities, or developers. These types of events, even if isolated, can be catastrophic to the stakeholders involved.
